T-LEVELS
THE NEXT LEVEL QUALIFICATION

T Levels are a new type of qualification in the UK. They are Level 3 (the same level as A Levels) and offer the opportunity to complete an extended work placement as part of your course. There is been rumors that they are not accepted by universities. This is false. Lots of universities accept T Levels (and their UCAS points) as part of their entry requirements, and encourage T Levels students to consider Higher Education options. Check out the list of Higher Education providers accepting T Levels here.

The first T Levels Celebration Week is taking place 4 – 8 July! Look out for social media posts (with the hashtag #TLevelsCelebrations), videos and interviews with T Level students about T Levels.

Starting 5th July, Lloyds Banking Group is hosting a series of monthly career spotlight events. Lloyds Careers Live is an online event for students and parents exploring a new career area every month, interviews with apprentices and graduates working in that sector so that students and parents can ask questions and support their career thinking. Careers Live will run 6.30pm -7.30pm starting Tuesday 5th July and will feature a different career on the first Tuesday of every month. Register here.

The first 100 days of an apprenticeship is a really important time, finding your feet and learning the ropes! Amazing Apprenticeships have made a new film that hears from a wide variety of apprentices, many of whom featured in our apprentice stories series, about their first 100 days and the advice and insight they would give to others. You can watch it here.

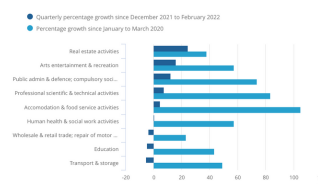

Amazing Apprenticeships have a whole bank of online resources that can help you research your apprenticeship options. Check them out here.

JOB OF THE WEEK

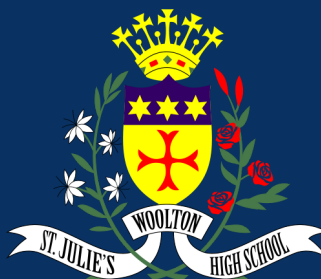

Pharmacologists study the effects of drugs and other chemical substances on cells, animals, humans and the environment. You can earn up to £50,000 per year and expect to work 38-41 hours per week. There will be 3% more Pharmacologist jobs by 2026. You can read more about this here.
